THE MISSOURI.-Yesterday morning the new and beautiful steamer Missouri left the Navy Yard and proceeded to opposite Castle Garden, where she stopped a few moments and fired a gun. She then went to the Narrows-returning at about 3 o'clock. After a trip to Staten Island she anchored at 4 o'clock between the South and Fulton Ferries where she now lies. It is thought that she is by far the handsomest and the swiftest steamer afloat.

Two young men have been arrested in Rochester charged with an attempt to set a building on fire. They confessed it and said they did it 'to see if the firemen would do their duty.'

F Mr. Philip H. Necklin, well known as a Law-Book Publisher in Philadelphia, fell in the street on Wednesday and died instantly.

P It is reported that Mr. Burns, who was injured by the fall of the floor of Montgomery Hall at Boston, has since died of his injuries.

The Colchis brought to Boston dates from Liverpool to Jan, 15th. The Hendrick Hudson brought here dates to the 17th-two days later.

FIF Mr. J. ORVILLE TAYLOR will lecture tonight in the room of the Chelsea Lyceum in Seventeenth street. Admittance free.

FROM St. Croix .- A letter from St. Croix, West End, dated 11th ult. states that Mr. Sugar, an invalid, from Bedford, Pa. died on the 3th of the same month. Mr. Haney, of Geneva, N. Y. died a few days previous. Mr. Ayrault, of Rochester, was very low, and not expected to recover.-Mrs. and Miss Champion were to return to New-York in the ship J. W. Cater, which was to suil between the 1st and 10th March for New-York .-She had just returned from a trip to the Windward Islands, with a number of invalids on board. all of whom, with one exception, were much ben-Jour. of Com. efitted by the voyage.

THE MAIL STEAMER .- The steam packet Unicorn sailed Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, for Halifax, with the English mail. Should she on her arrival at Halifax, find the Caledonia there, as is to be hoped may prove to be the fact, she will return to this port with the mail from England, and the Caledonia will return with the mail from this port to Liverpool. In this case the U. may be expected to arrive here by Saturday next. She has six passengers for Liverpoot, and several for | Boston Advertiser. Halifax.

The consequences of Delay.—The loss of a moment some-nimes will produce calamities that years caunot remove, as the following relation may too truly exemplify. Friendwilliam C. was an educated artist, whose youth gave promise of taking the lead in his profession—and whose parronage, equalling his deserts, three wa bright sunshine upon his nature prospects. He was introduced to Miss Emily D., a young lady frem Boston, who was here upon a visit to her friends. She was rich, handsome and accomplished.— They mutually leved—the match was approved—and an early day appointed for their nuptials. Alas! that day never came. The steamboat, on which Emily, her brother and lover had taken passage, started at her exact time—but C, was there a moment too late—the vessel was far from the whart. His heart sunk within him.

The passionate brother would listen to no excuse—he considered it a slight to his sister. He was her guardian, adviser, and had a fatal control ever her actions. In a short time he persuaded her to wed another. After reflection rendered her inconceivably wretched, William C, is now an object of pity—careless of himself, regardless of otkers— he is only the moving shadow of his former self. Thus, by the loss of one short minute, two happy beings were doome

This little story has its moral. One should never defer even for an instant, anything worthy of immediate atten-tion. The fact is, if C, had not been detained by his barber but had possessed one of Chapman's magic razor strops and shaved himself, he would not have lost his passage, his sweatheart, and his hope of worldly happiness. Let all lovers take warning—go to 102 William street, and avoid the dreadful rock upon which the fair prospects of poor William were wrecked.

Balis. THURSDAY, March 3.

The following sentences were pronounced by the Court, Simon Frasier, convicted of Forgery, in the 2d degree in passing an altered $3 bill of the North River Banking Asso ciation so as to appear to be a bill of the North River Bank.

was sentenced to the State Prison for 5 years. James Webb, a boy, convicted of Burglary in the 3d degree, in entering with false keys the store of W. II Townsend, corner of Wall and Nassau-streets, was sentenced to the State Prison for 2 years. John Golding, convicted of riot and assault and battery on Mrs. Dwinell, was sentenced to the City Prison 7 days. August Comens, convicted of assault and battery with a knife on Siphin Sing, a German, was sentenced to the city prison for seven days. Van Rensselaer Martling, indicted for grand larceny charged with stealing $45 in money from Clent Mason, No. 72 Cana street, on the 23d October, was on motion discharged, as two terms of the court had elapsed, and no wit nesses appeared against him.

and a long presentment, and were discharged for the term, having found 98 bills. The presentment states that the operations of the Board of Brokers are generally fair, but that it is a rate thing for par ties making time sales, to be in possession of the stock at the time, which makes the bargain void by law. It explains the mysteries of 'hammering' and 'cornering,' tells what are bulls and bears, and recommends that the Board discourage the sale of stocks on time, and that the Legislature repeal the law rendering time sales nuil and void. It complains that the inmates of the Lunatic Asylum are too closely crowded together. It presents the method of exhaming bodies at the Potter's field as a muisance, and suggests the removal of the acepar. It concludes by complaining of the frequent abuse of the habeas corpus act.

127 The Notes of the Monanouth Bank, N. J. (new issues) are redeemed by R. HASKELL, No. 30 Wall-street, at ½ of one per cent.

The Court then adjourned for the term. POLICE OFFICE.

SUSPICION OF FOUL PLAY.—Mr. H. N. B. Crandall, a contractor on the Croton Water Works, who with his family of children boarded at Fowler's, corner of Division and Chryste streets, (a porter touse,) having been missed from the above place since Friday night the 25m uht, suspicious were me that he had been improperly disposed of as he had been assaulted and beaten that night in the porter house by Wm. H. Pardy and a man named Black. Purdy had also said to Mr. Francis Turner of 206 Walker-street, who was at Fowler's during part of the afray, that he "would have satisfaction of Crandall; that he would murder Crandall, or that Crandall should nurder him;" and from the fact of Purdy and Black leaving before Crandall after the threat was made. Mr. Turner was induced, from the continthreat was made, Mr. Turner was induced, from the contin ued absence of Crandall, to make comp aint at the Police Other against Purdy and Bl. ch for the beating they inflict ed on Crandall at Fowler's, and the belief he (Turner) en-tertained of farther violence of those men to Crandall by waylaying, beaung, and causing his disappearance, &c. On this complaint Purdy was to-day arrested, and committed to prison in default or $1,000. Black is not yet arrested, and probably will not be. Crandall had a considerable sum of money with him at the time of his mysterious disappearance, and all attempts to discover him by means of offered rewards have proved entirely fruitless.

CORONERS OFFICE.

The Coroner held an inquest on the body of Robert Maslam, at No. 4 Twenty-Pirst-street. He was a miserly man-who with plenty of money in his chest denied himself the comforts of hite. He had been anwell for some time, and the night before his death was heard to fall out of his bed. The verdict was that he died of mortification of the leg.

Having devoted a large portion of the last thirty years to the subject, either as a teacher or an engraver, he feels a confidence in appearing this publicly, which few can with propriety assume. During the above period he has become acquainted with a greater variety of styles of business writing and methods of teaching Pennauship, perhaps, than any other man in the country, and, therefore, thinks himself amply qualified to judge of their merits, and to devise something so well adapted to the wants of the community as to supersede most other systems in this department of instruction. Whether he shall receive the general approbation of his tellow-citizens in this, his useful and benevolcat enterprise, time only can determine. They may be assured that his grand object shall be to turnish to the rising generation a complete and comprehensive plan, by which every person of common capacity may, with ease, learn to write a fair and legible hand. It will consist often progressive Copy-Books, having writing examples on the top of every page, execute in a correct and beautiful style, systemanically arranged from the simple rudaments of letters in large round text, to alphain a correct and beautiful style, systematically arranged from the simple rudiments of letters in large round text, to alphabetical sentences in small hand of different sizes; also to Italian, old English and German Text, the last of which will be elegantly ornamented and fourished. phene, they will be well pleased. This camphene is assate as oil, will not explode, will not soil the richest carpet or dress, will not crust the wick, will light a large room at the cost of one cent an hour, one gallon giving as much light as 2 or $3 worth of oil. Those who are doubtful of its safety or economy will be amply convinced by examining the thorough experiments of Piotessor Locke, or the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes. No metres are required to ascertain the quantity consumed. Astral, mantel, and chandelier lamps altered, and the whole expense saved in a short time. Parlor lamps, and store, tailor's, shoemaker's, and for manufacturers of all kinds. Nor sale only at the cerner of Canal-st, and Broadway.
